Crooked Trails and Straight

Doctor Brown looked at him curiously. Somehow this boy did not fit the specifications of the desperado that had been poured into his ears. "Don't know yet. Won't make any promises." He had been examining the wound in a businesslike way. "Looks like the bullet's still in there. Have to give you an anesthetic while I dig it out."

"Nothing doing," retorted Plan-drau. "You round up the pill in there and I'll stand the grief. When this lead hypocrite jabber into my arm it sorter gave me one of them anise-what-d'-yo-call-em—and one in a plenty for me."

"It'll hurt," the little man explained. "Expect I'll find that, out. Go to it."

Brown had not been for thirty years carrying a medicine case across the dusty deserts of the frontier without learning to know men. He made no further protest but set to work.

Twenty minutes later Curly lay back on the bunk with a sudden faintness. He was very white about the lips, but he had not once flinched from the instruments.

The prisoner glanced toward his guards and his voice fell to a husky whisper. "Say, Doc. What's the last of it?"

"Hush! Do my best, young fellow. Seems to me you're thinking of that pretty late."

Brown took up his medicine case and went back to the house.

CHAPTER II.

At the End of the Road.

Curly's wooden face told nothing of what he was thinking. The first article of the creed of the frontier is to be game. Good or bad, he takes what a man is the way he takes it. So now young Plan-drau ate his dinner with a hearty appetite, smoked cigarettes impatiently and occasionally cursed with his guards as usual and as a matter of course. Deep within him was a terrible feeling of sickness at the disaster that had overwhelmed him, but he did not intend to play the quitter. As the day began to wear out two riders from the Bar Double M reached the ranch and were brought in to identify him as the horse thief. The two were Maloney and Kite. Neither of them friends of the young rustler. The foreman in particular was a wet blanket to his chances.

"You've got the right man all right," he said to Buck without answering Plan-drau's cool nod of recognition.

"What sort of a reputation has he got?" Buck asked, lowering his voice a little.

Kite did not take the trouble to lower his. "Bad. Always been a tough character. Friend of Bad Bill Cranston and Soapy Stone."

"I don't know anything against the kid, but he's been a bad one in the wild," Maloney testified. "And I reckon we ain't any of us prize Sunday school winners for that matter."

As Buck turned to leave the bunkhouse the boy touched him on the arm.

"How about Cullison?" he asked, very low.

But Buck would not have it that way. "What about him?" he demanded out loud, his coarse grating like steel when it grinds.

"Is he—how is he doing?"

"What's eatin' you? Ain't he dyin' fast enough to suit you?"

"Plan-drau shrank from the cruel words of a schoolboy does from his teacher when he jumps at him with a gun."

It was then that Maloney made a friend of the young man for life. He let a hand drop carelessly on Curly's shoulder and looked at him with a friendly smile in his eyes. Just as if he knew that this was no wolf but a poor dog up against it all.

"Doc thinks he'll make it all right."

But there were times when Curly wondered whether it would make any difference to him whether Cullison got well or not. Something immediate was in the air. Public opinion of these men down to a decision. Most of these men were up to the average for the milk of human kindness. They were the squarest citizens in Arizona. But Plan-drau knew they would snuff out his life just the same if they decided it was best. Afterwards he might regret it, but that would not help him.

Darkness came, and the lamps were lit. Again Curly ate and smoked and chatted a little with his captors. But as the night wore on, feeling death creep closer every minute, cold shivers ran up and down his spine.

They looked at question him, at first casually and carelessly, so it seemed to Curly. But presently he discerned a drift in the talk. They were trying to lead him to had been his partners in the rustling.

"And I reckon Soapy and Bad Bill

Dinner Stories

Lord Tommody was very much in love with Ethel, the famous "radio star," and announced his intention of asking the lady to marry him the following night.

"And you think she will say yes?" asked the father anxiously.

"Oh, I don't know," said the jovial youth. "She is so beautiful and fascinating I feel I can never hope to win her love."

"Oh, no," said the father encouragingly. "Lots of men have succeeded. Why shouldn't you?"

An untraveled clergyman once treated himself to a trip to London. There for the first time in his life he saw a schoolgirl go through her exercises for the amusement of the little ones with whom she was playing.

After gazing at her with looks of interest and compassion for some time, he asked a boy near by if she had fits.

"No," replied the boy; "thom's gymnastics."

"Ah, how sad," said the man. "How long's she had 'em?"

An insurance man tells this one: "Not long ago there rushed into one of our offices in the south a very excited woman, so excited, in fact, she was out of breath and could speak only with difficulty."

"What's the trouble?" asked one of the clerks.

"I want a policy at once—at once," exclaimed the woman, when she had recovered sufficiently to articulate. "Our home is on fire."

"I think I'll see a lawyer today," said Hazel.

"Why?" asked Edith.

"Best proposed to me on Sunday, and I want to see if it's legal."

NASTY COLDS ARE RELIEVED AT ONCE

"Pape's Cold Compound" then breaks up a cold in a few hours

Don't stay snuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a severe cold and ends all grippe misery.

The very first dose opens your closed-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dizziness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest, safest, known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—Insist upon Pape's!

NEAR EAST FILMS TO BE SHOWN SATURDAY

For the purpose of getting the Armenian situation before the citizens of the county, the Near East Relief committee has made arrangements with Manager James Zanias to have a film, taken in Armenia, shown at the Apollo theatre, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 17-18.

The film, consisting of four reels, was taken under the personal supervision of Herbert Hoover. It shows the Armenian after the devastation wrought by the Turk, left them homeless and without food. Then the work which is being done by the Near East committee is depicted. The film will be screened in connection with the regular program.

After Janesville people have been given the opportunity of seeing the picture, it will be shown in various parts of the county. John Gross, county secretary, said today. Arrangements are being made to send speakers throughout the county who have actually witnessed conditions in Armenia. Many of these speakers are Armenians who have given up their professions to lecture for the Near East Relief fund.

The campaign in the county begins Feb. 1, and continues until Feb. 22. Rock county hopes to raise funds enough to support 250 orphans averaging $50 apiece for one year.

Around the State

Neenah—John Stevens, prominent and retired manufacturer, whose life has been threatened by attending physicians the early part of the week, following two strokes of paralysis, will recover, according to physicians.

Stevens Point—John Lepinski, Dewey, Portage county, used his influence in the charge of attempting to pass a forged check which was raised from $8.12 to $300, made his escape from the county jail the first night of his confinement and walked to the home of his father 12 miles distant. There he was persuaded to return and give himself up to the sheriff. Arraigned in court he entered a plea of not guilty and his case was adjourned until Jan. 21. Bail in the sum of $500 was furnished by his employer. Lepinski drew a pay check for $5.12 and when he presented it for payment it had been raised to $200 and another name substituted for that of the name of the payee, according to the charges.

Stevens Point—Pres. John D. Sims of the Stevens Point Normal is one of two educators selected from the middle west, and Mississippi, to serve as members of an important special commission of the National Council of Education, which is a department of the U. S. A. Six nationwide educators comprise the committee, which has just been appointed by Homer B. Seeley, Cedar Falls, president of the council. Their duties are to work on problems of constructive education and general problems of the national council, and they will make their first report at Cleveland, O., Feb. 22-24.

Stevens Point—Lieut. Elmer J. Stimm has returned to Stevens Point after spending more than 25 months in Russian railroad service for the United States government. He was one of 21 men who volunteered for Asiatic service.

Ashland—Entries for the North Wisconsin Grain show to be held at Ashland Saturday, Jan. 24, must be made not later than Jan. 22. County Agent Wright and his section supervisor will co-operate in the show, the principal speakers being Professors Moore and Tupper.

THE NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR THE CHURCH'S MISSION

THE AGENCIES of the Episcopal Church have launched upon a great campaign to fit the Church for its part in the new and plastic world.

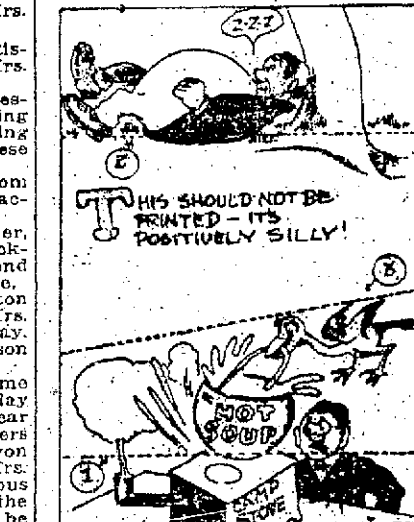

What is the object of the campaign? Upon what does it rely for its success?

Money?

Money is a mere by-product. Efficiency in the King's Business? Given the one essential and efficiency will surely follow. The campaign is first of all to deepen the spiritual life of the whole Church; to tune its soul to the call for finer living and higher thinking.

"Not by might nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord."

This is the watchword of the great campaign: First of all it seeks a larger measure of the Spirit of God, knowing that all other needful things will be added unto this.

Cut out the picture on all four sides. Then carefully fold dotted line 1, its entire length. Then dotted line 2, and so on. Fold each section down neatly and accurately. When completed turn over and you'll find a surprising result. Save the pictures.

Adverse Balance of Trade Low in Britain

[By Associated Press.]
London, (By Mail).—The adverse balance of trade against Great Britain as shown by comparison of her exports and imports during the month of November was the lowest attained since the armistice.

The decline in imports is attributed by the American Chamber of Commerce in London in part to the recent strikes in the United States. It is stated also that decreased production and shipping troubles in America forcibly reduced British imports but at the same time improved her market for exports in continental Europe which were shut off from their source of supply.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl about 17 years of age. I go with a boy who is just 16. My mother says I should not go with him as he is too young for me. He also says he is not decent. I have gone with him for some time and he has been a gentleman. Is it all right for me to go with him? E. P. S.

At your age you should be very careful of the friends you choose and should accept counsel from other members of the family. Your mother may have good reason for saying what he does. Talk the matter over with your mother and get her advice. It seems to me you are too young to go with boys.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like your opinion of a man who has gone with girl two years and does not give her a Christmas present. Do you think he cares for her or is he a T. W.?

If he can make a big show of himself he will spend. What he has is always so much better than what any one else has. As far as treats go, he is not lavish. He has plenty of money and no one to spend it on. He is proud to go with me, having known my family name for years. If you didn't like his character, how would you suggest breaking away in a kindly manner?

LONELY JANET.

This man is selfish and because he is not engaged to you does not realize that flowers or candy at Christmas time would give you pleasure. Selfishness of this nature makes every one very unhappy. If you feel that you do not like this man's character I would certainly advise you to break away from him. Refuse his invitations and do not let him call. You can be courteous but firm. Doubtless he will be hurt, but that you cannot avoid.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl 17 years of age. A little over a year ago I started corresponding with a soldier in France. Last August he returned to the states. He has written me twice. I answered his last letter about three weeks ago and he hasn't answered yet.

I have never seen him. He spoke about coming to see me several times but he has not. Do you think he will write any more? If so should I continue to correspond with him?

ANXIOUS.

I have no idea whether or not the young man will write again. He may be so occupied with his former friends that he is satisfied and has lost interest in his correspondence with you. If he does write, I see no reason why you should not continue the correspondence.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When a boy and girl go anywhere, should she ask the boy is the house when they return? If not, how late should she stay out talking to him? Should she tell him when to go home?

INQUISITIVE.

If it is after 10 o'clock the girl should not invite the boy to come in. Neither should she stay out talking with him. If he makes no move to go home, she should say that it is late and she must go in.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A friend of mine is engaged. Whenever she and her fiance go out her mother insists that the girl take her sister, who is a few years younger.

INQUISITIVE.

In some countries across the water it is quite customary for engaged couples to be chaperoned when attending local functions in the evening. In the U. S. betrothed couples may attend the theater or go out to dinner without a chaperon. In the case of their being chaperoned, the chaperon should always be an older person and never a younger sister.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

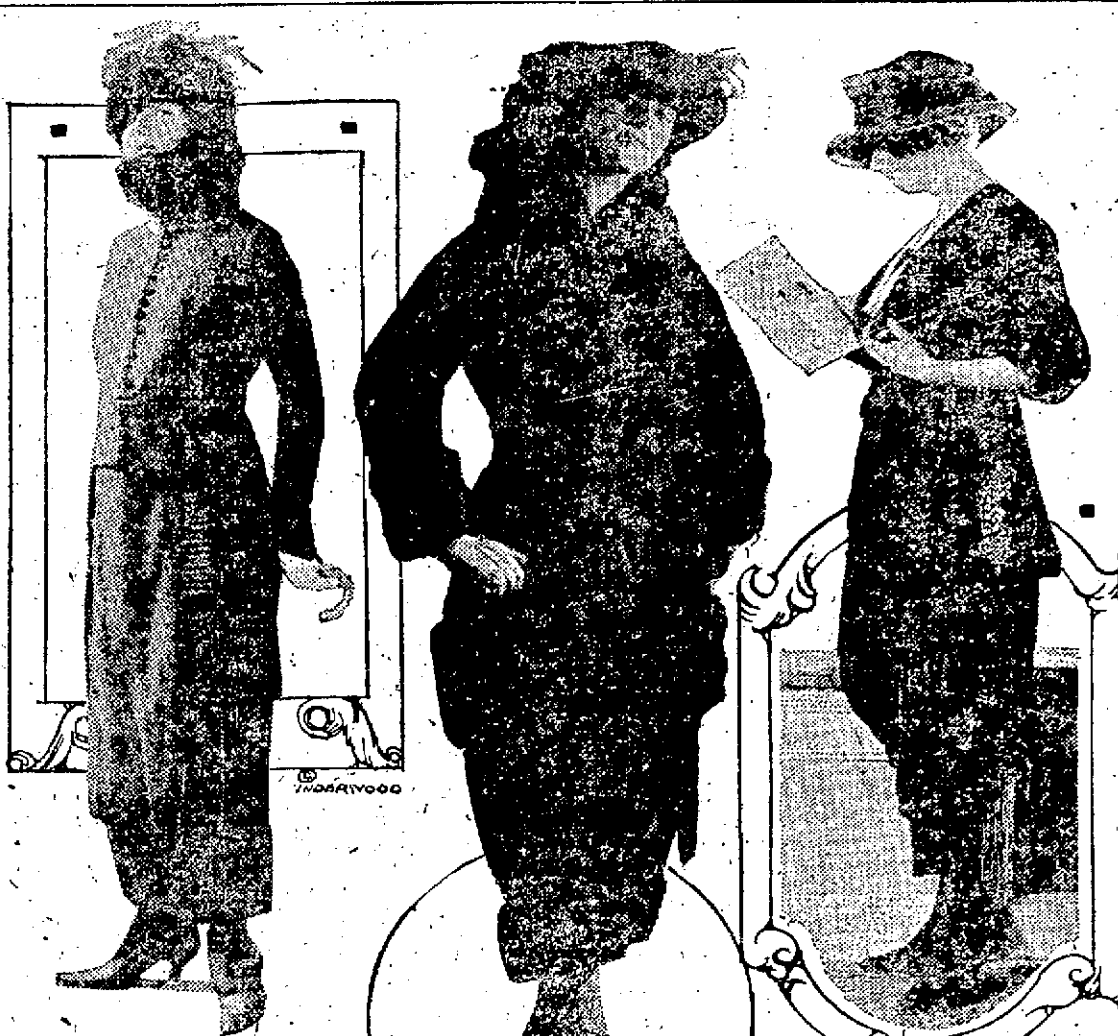

It is astonishing how much better it is to feel on good terms with your husband than to feel mad and resentful. I have lately. To be sure, my pride was hurt on Jim's running off to Hammond's Corners to see that stupid engineering plant. And it's still hurt. And Jim is not a bit sorry. And Jim is all wrong, being so foolish. And I am perfectly right in thinking he ought to have treated me more like a man. We've been unusually, more lovingly, after our coolness and separation.

After all, what is right and what is wrong? I suppose Jim can't help being a fish and I can't help liking "temperament." We can't always be in a sympathetic mood toward each other. We've been unusually, more lovingly, after our coolness and separation. And Jim is all wrong, being so foolish. And I am perfectly right in thinking he ought to have treated me more like a man. We've been unusually, more lovingly, after our coolness and separation.

Yes, Athena's right. You can't always tell the things that make a person act in the way that has hurt you or made you angry. You can't always tell the things that make a person act in the way that has hurt you or made you angry. You can't always tell the things that make a person act in the way that has hurt you or made you angry.

But Hammond's Corners—ugh! (To be continued.)

What All Women Will Want to Buy At the January Clearance Sales

By ELOISE.

The woman who is not too worried by the size of her Christmas bills will want to take advantage of the present clearance sales. Everything from fur coats to boots are offered now at reduced prices and many a wardrobe may be replenished from the midwinter season at a moderate outlay. The women who need new coats, suits, or wraps will be particularly fortunate, for some shops are cutting the prices even on exclusive models to one-half of the original.

It is good investment to buy high boots or coats at these sales, for shoe men tell us there will be a drop in shoe prices. Hats to finish out this season or begin next season are also an economy, but perhaps both sides agreed to a joint advisory committee to adjust matters, with the following result:

Girls of from 14 to 16, in training, will receive minimum wages of from $25 to $35 a week. The minimum for girls of 17 will be $108, rising to $153 for servants of 24, with an allowance of $15 for uniform.

Working hours are to be from 6:30 a. m. to 10 p. m., with two and one-half hours for meals, and two hours for leisure. One-half day from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., the maid will be at liberty each week, and she may have similar time off every other Sunday, and will be entitled to a vacation of two weeks in the year.

For male older than 24, minimum wages are to be fixed by agreement between mistress and maid. The advisory council recommended that long service in one situation be specially recognized.

There is nothing which is such a good buy as a plain tailored suit. This may be bought now at reduced prices and may be worn all spring and all fall and perhaps all next winter under a top coat.

Those women who have put off buying their midwinter clothes until after the holiday sales which are now on will be wise to buy models which will be good next year, for it looks as though prices are going to remain up. The careful shopper may be able to get a coat and a suit new for the money either one would cost a few months ago. Here is a smart suit, on the left, which was seen in a New York shop. It is fashioned of brown duvetyne, cut in a most unusual style. Tan braid gives a smart touch to the skirt and the choker collar of beaver trims the coat.

The coat in the center is also an unusual style which will be good for more than a passing season. It is made of brown duvetyne, also. The shawl collar, cuffs and bands about the exceedingly short skirt are of sable squirrel. It is the type of coat which may be used for street or dress wear. The black satin frock is also a practical garment, for it may be worn on winter afternoons and also in the early spring. It is a gracefully draped model and is given an unusual touch by the curiously patterned silver banding.

Sister Servants Help Themselves to Jewels

(By Associated Press.)

Berlin. (By Mail).—The bolshevik idea that the other fellow ought to be compelled to share his property even if one must resort to theft to obtain it seems to actuate some of Berlin's thieves. Two sisters, servants of a well-to-do family in Hannover, who recently stole 400,000 marks worth of valuables from their employers' declared, when arrested, that they felt it was perfectly right under the new order of things to take a share in the property of those better situated.

Large quantities of jewelry and valuable articles are being stolen in Berlin. Servants are often the offenders and frequently are captured because they are amateurs.

THE WISHING PLANE

As Jack and Jane and their friends came out of the second house they had pecked into on their arrival in the Armenian city, Captain Brave noticed a dark skinned man in modern dress coming down the narrow street. Captain Brave thought he might understand English, so spoke to him.

"Do you do you, sir. Can you help us?" asked Captain Brave. And much to the children's surprise, the man said, "I'll try to, and came politely to Ladydear as he came up. Captain Brave explained that they had just reached the city and were looking for someone who could guide them about, help find some place where they might eat and tell them much about the country.

"I can do all of that if it is agreeable to you," said the man when Captain Brave finished. "I have been interpreter for a big shipping firm at Smyrna, Turkey, for three years." he continued. "I have met many Americans and often have wanted to talk to them about America and other things not connected with just shipping."

Captain Brave introduced Ladydear and the children to the man and when he told them his name neither Jack nor Jane, nor even Captain Brave nor Ladydear could understand it for he spoke Armenian. When he saw the children's look on their face he laughed and said, "For my work I have called myself John Gregory so I would be glad to have you call me by that name."

Their new-made friend led Ladydear, Jack and Jane and Captain Brave to a small inn in the center of the city and arranged for supper for them. And while they waited for the Armenian woman to prepare the food, Gregory told the children more about his country, its people and their trouble.

Then, of course, he asked Jack and Jane about themselves and their home. When the children told him about mother and father back in Make Believe town he said, "It must be wonderful to have a father who mother with you or at least back home waiting for you. My father and mother met the fate of many thousands of our people."

"You mean the Turks took them away?" asked Jack.

"Yes, took them and my brother. That was sixteen years ago when I was ten years old and my brother eight. We lived in the country near here then. Father had a large farm and grew much corn and had great pastures filled with sheep. Father had been called upon many times to join the army sent to other parts of our country to drive back the Turks, but the Turks never had come near our farm or this city. But one day while we were eating dinner one of the neighbors rushed in to tell us that the Turks were pouring into the city and coming toward our farm."

The man asked us to help spread the alarm and then went on.

"Father didn't dare leave mother and my two children any word to the houses nearby, so he sent me. I ran as fast as I could, but before I had reached the second farmhouse I had seen the dust flying up from the road where the Turks were coming. They stopped at every farm, ran through the little houses and whatever they could find there were then on to the next. By the time they reached our farm they had more than three hundred prisoners with them. Armenian men they had made prisoners."

"I warned the folks at four farms, but the Turks reached them before they could do more than hide their valuables and try to hide their little children."

"I'm afraid we have to wait until tomorrow for the rest of Gregory's story."

14 Hens Lay 13 Eggs a Day. Easily Done

Mr. Moore's Hens Lay When Eggs Are Scarce. Here's the Plan.

"I had been getting 2 or 3 eggs a day from 15 hens. Then I commenced putting Dor Sung in the feed, and am getting 11 to 12 eggs a day, with one hen setting. Dor Sung is the best thing I have found for making hens lay."

—E. L. Moore, 518 Clayborn St., Danville, Va.

Mr. Moore used 50 cents worth of Dor Sung in January. Figure his profit with eggs selling around 75¢ per dozen. It is no better than Dor Sung is going for thousands of others. Accept our offer just as Mr. Moore did.

Give your hens Dor Sung and watch results for one month. You don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Dor Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any way and starts her laying.

Try Dor Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Dor Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer or send 50¢ cents for a package by mail, prepaid. Burrell-Durges Co., 22 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Varsity Teaching Staff Given Salary Increase

Bismark, N. D., (By Mail).—Faculty members of the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks will receive salary increases amounting to $500 each in most cases under a general scale adopted by the state board of administration, according to an announcement issued from the board's offices today. The action affects 86 members of the varsity teaching staff, including assistants.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty.

Oh, girls, such an abundance of thick, heavy, lustrous hair is a perfect mass of wavy, silky hair, gloriously fluffy, bright and so easy to manage.

Just moisten a cloth with a little "Danderine" and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this magically removes all dirt, excess oil and grease, but your hair is not left brittle, dry, stringy or faded, but charmingly soft, with glossy, golden gleams and tender lights. The youthful glints, tints and color are again in your hair.

"Danderine" is a tonic-beautifier. Besides doubling the beauty of the hair as once, it checks dandruff and stops falling hair. Get delightful Danderine for a few cents at any drug or toilet counter and use it as a dressing and invigorator as told on bottle.

The Business Heads of Wm. J. Moxley, State:

"We use only Moxley's 'Dixie' Margarine on our tables and in our homes. We do not ask the public to use anything that we do not think is good enough for ourselves."

The Heads of this business surely know how pure and how wholesome and nutritious Dixie Margarine is. And here is one business at least that has a full sense of responsibility toward the Public it serves.

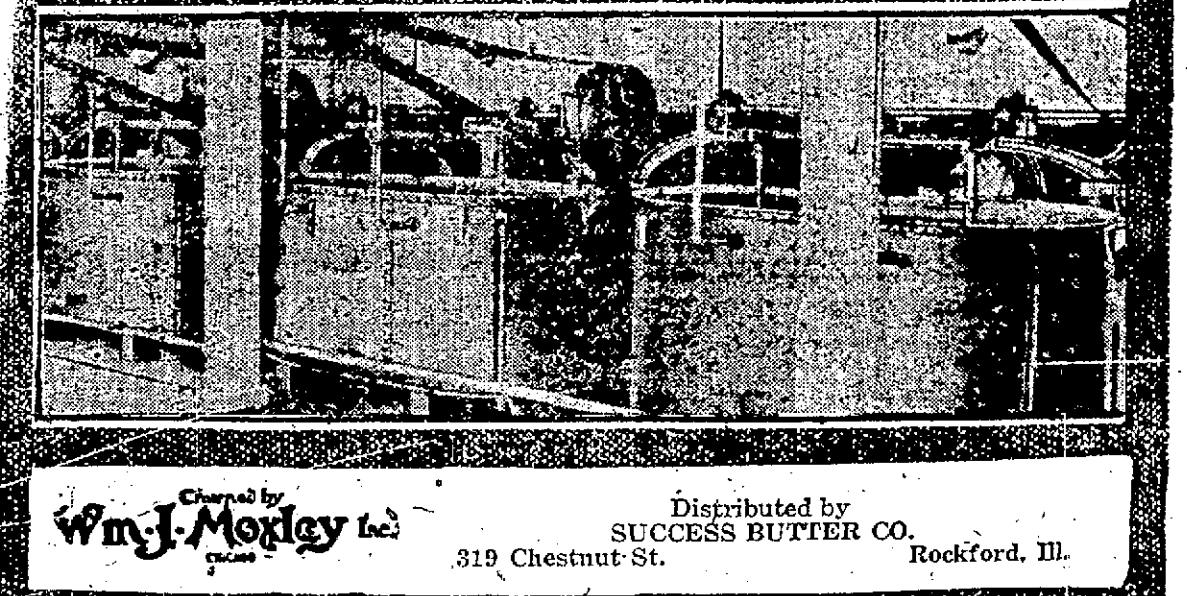

Your nose gets a pleasant sensation when you travel through this great Moxley Plant. Not only does everything look clean, but it smells clean. A housewife cleanses her utensils with hot water; but here everything is daily cleansed with live steam—pipes, churns, trucks, walls and floors, yes, even the clothes the workmen wear—are scalded into purity every day.

So that when Dixie Margarine finally rests in its long trays in the great cooling rooms, it is as sweet to the nose and as tasty to the tongue as any butter you ever ate.

Try it and you will buy it as long as you live.

Here is a picture of one of our great banks of pasteurizers* by which Moxley's Dixie is made absolutely pure.

*If everything you ate were pasteurized like DIXIE, there would be very little sickness in the world. Ask your family physician how vitally important pasteurization is.

GRAIN

Chicago Review.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—Prices readily declined in the corn market today as a result of selling based to a considerable extent on a warning by National Wheat Director Barnes against price hazards after activities of the United States Grain Corporation and on June 1. A decline in hog values tended further to weaken the corn market. Besides, receipts were larger and weather was favorable for the crop movement. Opening prices, which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to 1/2c lower, with May $1.33 1/2@1.34 1/2, and July $1.32@1.32 1/2, were followed by material setbacks
all around.
Evidence that there had been little or no improvement in the supply of railroad cars led afterward to upturns in the market. Prices closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to 1/2c higher, with May $1.34 1/2 @1.35 1/2 and July $1.32 1/2@1.33.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.
New York, Jan. 12.—Weakness of oil was most marked in the Mexican group, which reacted 3 to 8 points on further rumors of serious damage from recent earthquake disturbances.
American Woolen cancelled its gain and reversals among steels and equipments ranged from 1 to 4 points. Motors and allied shares lost 1 to 3 and shipbuilding, tobacco and leather declined about 1/2, while rails were ignored. United States Steel was firm and a few issues, notably Royal Dutch, shell transport and Worthington Pump were comparatively firm. Call money opened at 7 Percent.
Stocks made spirited recoveries at the opening of today's session from the sudden reversal which attended last week's final dealings. The rally was unexpected in many quarters because of the deficit in clearing house reserves and uncertainties attendant upon another session of the United States supreme court. American Woolen led with a gain of 6 points.
oil, steels, equipments and a few specialties rising 1 to 3. Much of the advance was forfeited within the first half hour, oils reacting sharply.

Moderate covering followed the seven percent money rate, the shorts evidently expecting a higher quotation.
Improvement was of brief duration, however, the general list soon making another and a more severe decline under lead of oils, motors, steels and high priced specialties.

Pershing Spends Day in Review of Fort Riley, Kans.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Fort Riley, Kans., Jan. 12.—Gen.
John J. Pershing's schedule here today included an inspection of the old cavalry and artillery post of Fort Riley, used largely for hospital purposes during the war, a luncheon with the Rotary club of Junction City and an afternoon spent watching an athletic program at Fort Riley.

SHIP SINKS; RAFTS ARE SEEN AFLOAT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Jan. 12.—The French steamer Afrique, Bordeaux to Dakar, sank in the Bay of Biscay this morning after a struggle to keep afloat since last Saturday when she sprung a leak. The steamer Caylan, standing nearby picked up two of the Afrigue's boats with their occupants.
Some rafts with survivors also were seen after the Afrique went down, it to $40 per ton; timothy hay, $25 to was reported by wireless.

High Wages Cut down Annual Budget for Poor of City

Marquette, Jan. 12.—The budget for the poor of this city may be cut down to half this year, according to Poor Commissioner J. L. Despain, who reports that a big decline in the aid is necessary. The budget last year was about $15,000, and if present conditions continue the budget may be reduced to $8,000 this year.
Commissioner Despain attributes this to the prosperous condition of the city and the high wages that are being paid.
